Belgrade Paper Says Molotov Was Obstacle

WELGRADE, Wednesday (UPI) — The Communist weekly "Republika" said today that Mr. V.M. Molotov was "mainly responsible" for the Soviet Minister becoming "unable to understand the new era and... proved a serious obstacle for the new spirit in international relations."

The paper called on the Hungarian Communist Party Chief, Mr. Matyas Rakosi, to follow Mr. Molotov's example and resign.

Mr. Rakosi bitterly criticized President Tito during his break with Stalin.

Tito to Leningrad

President Tito had a last round of official visits in Moscow before catching a midnight train to Leningrad where he will stay.

Marshal Tito spent the morning visiting Russia's atomic power station, 112 kms from Moscow, and met students at Moscow University. A reception was given later in his honour by President Klementi Voroshilov.

Discuss Disarmament

Marshal Tito will continue his talks with Soviet leaders on Saturday after his return from Leningrad. At their first serious negotiating session today, the discussion included disarmament and Germany as well as Soviet-Yugoslav relations.

Nine Yugoslav wives gathered in honour of Marshal Tito's wife, Jovanka. It was the first time that such a gathering has been known to take place here. Soviet leaders rarely bring their wives to official functions, and apart from Mrs. Molotov, they have never been known to act as hostesses to visiting foreign guests.

Iranian to Preside At I.L.O. Meeting

GENEVA, Wednesday (UPI) — The Iranian Labour Minister, Mohsen Nasir, was yesterday elected President of the 39th International Labour Organization conference with 128 votes against 59 for M.A. Raschid, Burmese Minister of Labour.

This was the first time in I.L.O. history that the office had been contested.

The Iranian called on the I.L.O. to abolish forced labour "in all its forms and in every part of the world."

Effect of Automation

A resolution calling for an investigation into the consequences of automation became tabled by workers' delegations from Israel, the U.S., Britain, Switzerland, Denmark, Mexico, Cuba and West Germany.

Tomorrow, the conference is to discuss the admission of Morocco, Tunisia and Sudan.

Stevenson Gains Clear Lead Over Kefauver

NEW YORK, Wednesday (UPI) — Mr. Adlai Stevenson won a resounding victory over Senator Estes Kefauver in yesterday's presidential primary election in California after securing the large block of 86 state votes in the Democratic National Convention.

The latest count today gave Mr. Stevenson 458,785 votes from 12,344 of the 24,180 precincts against 261,831 for the Senator.

Mr. Kefauver conceded defeat early this morning and sent Mr. Stevenson a congratulatory telegram.

He said that he would continue the fight for nomination and would not settle for the vice-presidential candidature.

The latest unofficial count of votes to the National Convention in August is Stevenson 28%; Kefauver 16%; all others 2%; uncommitted 37%.

To win nomination a candidate must receive 66% of votes at the Convention.

U.S. AMBASSADOR TO MOROCCO

LONDON, Wednesday (UPI) — Britain announced today the appointment of an Ambassador to Morocco. The envoy is Mr. R. W. A. French-Pennelot.

Mr. French-Pennelot has been Consul-General in Rabat since 1951.

Petah Tikva Hapoel Blanks Brazilians, 3-0

Jerusalem Post Reporter

PETAH TIKVA, Wednesday (UPI) — With international Nahum Stelmach and Boaz Kahn in the match-ups only chances, Petah Tikva Hapoel scored a surprisingly clear 3-0 victory over Sao Christo, the Brazilian football team, at Petah Tikva this afternoon.

About 5,000 fans turned out to see the two teams play. The Petah Tikva team played more direct football. In the 20th minute, Kaufman hit a fine goal, and Steinach scored two goals in the second half. Best of the home team were Stelmach, Goali Weisner and Keeper Uri Carmi.

However, from the penalty spot, all the Brazilians of

Ike Urges Review Of Aid to Tito

WASHINGTON, Wednesday (Reuters) — President Eisenhower told his Press conference today that there should be a re-study of American aid to Yugoslavia.

He also said that he would take another look at where it stands vis-a-vis the Yugoslav President, and the statement should perhaps be taken at its face value and with due consideration for the circumstances in which it was made. Congress is intent on slashing the foreign aid bill, and the House Foreign Affairs Committee has already picked a cool billion off the $4.5 billion requested by Mr. Dulles.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Joseph McCarthy and like-minded folk demand that Yugoslavia should be deprived of further American assistance, now that Marshal Tito has divulged where his ideological heart lies. The junior Senator from Wisconsin, of course, has become the old grey mare of American politics; he isn't what he used to be, and his kin of death is much more likely to destroy a cause than his opposition to it. But the McCarthyites, and other Congressmen as India — is not now an easy target, still others are casting leery glances at Britain following her decision to ease China trade restrictions.

The paper called on the Hungarian Communist Party Chief, Mr. Matyas Rakosi, to follow Mr. Molotov's example and resign.

Mr. Rakosi bitterly criticized President Tito during his break with Stalin.

Asked if Yugoslavia Stopped

WASHINGTON, Wednesday (Reuters) — Senator Joseph McCarthy (Republican-Wisconsin) yesterday introduced a bill to stop American aid for the Tito regime of Marshal Tito's pro-Soviet state.

Some Congressmen are expected to demand cuts in aid to Yugoslavia, in view of her recent pro-Soviet pronouncements with the Soviet bloc.

Asked about Marshal Tito's visit to Russia, Mr. Eisenhower replied that he did not consider what he called the "Tito incident" entirely a loss.

Why had the Yugoslav President been received with such a lack of enthusiasm in Moscow, he asked rhetorically.

It was because of Marshal Tito's success in the foreign policy debate on his foreign aid bill.

Israel-Latin American Harmony Noted

Jerusalem Post Reporter

Speaking at a symposium held on Tuesday night by the Central Institute for Israel-Iberia-Latin American Relations, Foreign Minister Moshe Sharett said that a threefold harmony existed between Israel and the Latin American countries.

This harmony was expressed in the relations between Israel and the Governments of those countries, between Latin American Jewry and Israel and between the Latin American Governments and their Jewish populations.

Other speakers at the symposium held at Beit Hillel were Professor E. Katchalsky and Mr. Yitshak Shenhav, who discussed scientific and literary activity in Latin America, respectively.

Mr. Sharett, who is Honorary President of the Institute, said that the influence of Latin Americans on world affairs was increasing at the time when Israel's fate was being determined in the international sphere and recalled that Guatemala and Uruguay had thrown their weight behind the United Nations.

Mr. Sharett called for the expansion of cultural ties between Israel and the Latin American countries.

In the chair was Justice Gad Franklin, President of the Institute.

DRILLING FOR WATER NEAR KFAR HITTIM

TEL AVIV, Wednesday.— A second well to supply water to Kfar Hitim (Kfar Hittim) in Lower Galilee is to be drilled near Kfar Hitim by the Israel Water Works Ltd. (Mifal Hahayim).

The first, to give an estimated 400 cubic metres an hour, was described by Professor L. Picard of the Hebrew University, as the greatest success in tapping subterranean water sources in recent times.

We deeply regret to announce the sudden death of our beloved wife, mother, sister, grandmother, and mother-in-law.

House Labour Unit Gets Stettner CaseUnited Nation Will Defend State, Ben-Zvi Tells Unionists

Jerusalem Post Reporter

In the hour of need, the entire nation will rise as one man to defend Israel. President Ben-Zvi yesterday told the delegation of A.F.L.-C.I.O. leaders at a reception at Beit Hanassi. The President, who was explaining the solidarity of the nation in the face of danger, went on to outline the vital part played by the Defence Forces not only in defending the borders but also in moulding the peoples of various backgrounds and origins into one nation.

The new immigrants, the President said, were happy to forsake their past existence as hawkers and to become farmers and workers. Late in the visitors were given at a reception given at the Municipality by Mayor Agnon, who told them that if America was the classic example of the "melting pot," then Israel was a "pressure cooker."

The Customs Department therefore exercised its authority with regard to temporary employment and dismissed Stettner for having failed in his trial period.

A disciplinary court set up by the Civil Service Commission in 1952 did not find sufficient evidence for the charges of the three officials.

According to the statement, "the nature and the content" of Mr. Stettner's various complaints of forgery and theft was such as to make cooperation between him and his fellow employees impossible.

The Customs Department, he said, had no right to interfere in the hiring of employees.

THE Sphinx. It seems, has taken herself from the Pyramids to the Kremlin. After the arms deal with Israel's enemies, which if not instigated by the Soviet Union, were openly condoned by it, the latest pronouncements from Moscow are puzzling, to say the least. Since the state of a cold war between Russia and this country, as Mr. Khrushchev frankly admits, has not been of Israel's making, any acceptable suggestion to bring it to an end will nowhere be more sincerely welcomed than here. It all depends, of course, upon the terms under which, in the opinion of Moscow, this worthy end can be achieved.

The Jewish people have a good memory, and the Soviet vote at Lake Success is not forgotten. But it is remembered, too, that the fantastic charge of Israel being an instrument of Anglo-Saxon imperialism is not new. It had already been made in September, 1948, and has been repeated, with variations, ever since.

Nothing is more difficult to eradicate than a prejudice of this nature, especially when it has become part and parcel of a global policy. But it cannot be denied that many events of these past months point to a possible change of heart, or at least to a new approach on the part of the present Soviet leadership. True, their opposition to NATO and the Baghdad Pact is as strong as ever, but in other directions the atmosphere is less charged than it was at the height of the cold war. New contacts have been established, and the emphatic statement that there are different roads to Socialism has taken some of the sting out of the fear of Communist domination.

One thing is clear: Russia does not want war now. Whether this is a tactical manoeuvre or a new and lasting line of policy, no one can tell. As far as this country is concerned, the masters in Moscow may rest assured that the government in Jerusalem will examine with an open mind any constructive peace plan, provided that it is based on genuine recognition of the existence and the needs of Israel. It will be the first, and not easy, task of the Soviet leaders to show how their new policy can be reconciled with large-scale support of war preparations beyond Israel's borders.

Let us, then, wait and see. It is perhaps a hopeful sign that it was a French delegation that was privileged to elicit Mr. Khrushchev's statement.

ON more than one occasion, the Supreme Court of Israel has expressed its disapproval of arbitration in other wise objectionable practice at various levels of public administration, but never before has it used such strong language as in the judgment sentence in the Law Report published on another page today.

The facts of the case are plain. A resident of Jaffa who had in his boyhood returned to America and was relieved of his absentee status in 1951, claims that, despite his return, his half share in an ice factory was disposed of by the Custodian of Absentee Property in circumstances which, in the opinion of the Court, smacked of corruption. One of the most distressing aspects of the transaction is the fact that the price paid by the purchasers, a cooperative of ex-soldiers, was fixed on the basis of an estimate by a value employed by these same purchasers. As it stands, the Court had no choice but to dismiss the appeal, but by not awarding costs to the respondent Custodian, made it perfectly clear what it thought of the affair.

This is not the first, nor will it be the last case, where law and justice are in conflict, and where the old question arises as to who has custody over the custodians. But the matter should not be allowed to rest there. If neither civil nor criminal law can be invoked, then the only alternative for a disgruntled proprietor, other ways and means must be found to do away with a bad situation.

Mr. Hammarskjold Defeats His Own Aim

By SHAYA SHAPIRO
Post Military Correspondent

WHERE was a tendency in Foreign Ministry circles to attack political importance to the U.N. Secretary's recent visit to the Middle East. It was a reasonable assumption. The United Nations is an international body created in order to unravel political entanglements, while the Hague Tribunal is supposed to be the highest world authority for solving legal questions. Had the United Nations intended to clarify a point of international law, the letter of the law should have been sent to the Middle East. By sending a political figure the nations of the world presumably meant to find a political solution to the Palestine question. One is bound to believe that this was the case, because the letter of the law, Mr. Dag Hammarskjold himself, when he set out on his way East.

However, he met with a legalistic iron curtain behind which the Arabs — and partly the Israelis — withdrew when unwanted political questions were put to them. The whole, the Israeli collaborated with Mr. Hammarskjold in his endeavour to indicate a political solution — which means the establishment of normal diplomatic relations. On the whole, the Arabs refused to get up the political enthusiasm, but retreated their political mission of Mr. Hammarskjold was, therefore, a failure, as was indeed proved by the subsequent debate in the Security Council.

Legalistic Pitfalls

Mr. Hammarskjold himself was probably aware of the legalistic pitfalls of his mission, for he devoted the whole of the first chapter of his report to "The International Commissions." The main terms of reference were, of course, the Security Council resolution of April 4, 1955, which "considers that the situation now prevailing between the parties concerning the enforcement of armistice agreements and the compliance given to the above-mentioned resolutions of the Council is such that its continuance is likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security; requests the Secretary-General to undertake, as a matter of urgent concern, a survey of the enforcement of armistice agreements and the Council's resolutions under reference." (These decisions are those of March 3, 1955, September 8, 1955, and January 19, 1956.)

The Security Council also requested the Secretary-General "to arrange with the parties for the adoption of any measures" which might lessen the tensions along the armistice lines. The Secretary-General had to end up in particular with practical measures: (a) withdrawal of forces from the armistice demarcation lines; (b) full freedom of movement for U.N. observers along the demarcation lines, in the demilitarized zones; and (c) establishment of local arrangements for the prevention of incidents and the prompt detection of any violations of the armistice agreements.

As should have been expected, no Arab politician told Mr. Hammarskjold what was being broadcast daily in all Arab capitals: that the Arabs are not willing to come to terms.

It is seldom that a Tel Aviv newspaper lets itself go and becomes as unashamedly enthusiastic. It did so on the opening of the London Festival Ballet. From the moment the curtain opened on the idyllic scene of "Les Sylphides," and the orchestra began the familiar music of Chopin, the ballet held them in the palm of their hands. Gone were all pretensions of modernity and the love of new art in the dance. Even those who came to scoff remained to give homage, and let themselves be carried away by the beauty and the magic.

I hope that Mr. Rose's words will be heeded in the right quarters — so liberal with praise for the scientist, yet so miserly when it comes to hard cash.

Yours, etc.

Sir — I was very pleased with the forthright and timely remarks of Mr. D. A. I. Rose,

President of the American

Technion Foundation ("Industry Must Aid Research,"

May 20). In your May 26

issue you say:

"...that such an interpretation of the General Armistice Agreement was false, and that reaction was the result of the policy of the Security General."

Some confusion had arisen concerning the status of the armistice and was rooted to the ground by the realisation that they might easily have been twin brothers. He turned away and picked up a murderous-looking small flint-headed spear offered for sale, declared that the tip was made of rubber, put it back, and drifted away, looking embarrassed.

OVER lunch the visitors found it rather difficult to understand why the Indians were so intent on making them understand that if there was nothing to prevent them from finding ordinary jobs if they wished. The girl from Tokyo offered a reasonable sociological explanation,

but nobody was very happy.

The Thais laughed and said "Like the bears,"

and the Chinese said "Like

the monkeys."

THE Americans had got off

the trip back was a good one, but the Burmese

who must have been a radio monitor at one time, had done a good job.

He turned to his wife and she said "Like the bears,"

and the Indians said "Like

the monkeys."

every Far Eastern language.

We helped him to add "Finlandia" is Kol Yerushalaim" to his repertoire. People took off their shoes, loosened their ties and produced packets of sweets. There was some singing, we never discovered in what language. The Burmese were very happy that it was another day, and the handsome Korean said Chicago was interesting but what was the point of this?

"Just hills and trees, And at home

the trees are a prettier shape, not all round like eggs. And we don't have hills here, so for looking at them," Miss Tokyo surprisingly sang the "Lemonia" in German, and the driver

finally gave up trying to impart any more information.

One man drove his feet up underneath himself on the seat.

The Orient had won once more by sheer force of numbers.
